1) General Overview - What is Star Realms: United Assault? Star Realms: United Assault is a brand new cooperative strategy game for 2 - 8 players. Players work together to win by destroying their opponents' bases. To do this, players must strategically build and defend fleets of starships from pirates, starbases and faction enemies. If players attack each other's bases, they will be eliminated. The player with the most starships left will win! 2) What Are The New Ships and Bases? Star Realms:

United Assault features several new ships and bases which represent powerful fleets of starships. New ships include: Fleet Cruiser: Fleet Cruisers are powerful starships with more limited attack capabilities but can damage all enemy ships in one shot. These powerful ships are often very expensive to build and can only be built in the Faction Mode. However, it is possible for two players to work together to build a Fleet Cruiser. Freighter: Freighters are small starships that travel around the galaxy delivering cargo and taking it away again. Only players can build a Freighter, and they can only be built in the faction mode. Assault Pod: Pods are smaller starships than Freighters. They can only transport one player at a time, and they are not as effective against enemy ships. This means they are usually used for small transports between factions or players. Starbases: A starbase can be built by a faction, but it will be destroyed if a fleet of enemy starships attack it! 3) New Rules and Game Modes 3.1) New game modes: Faction Mode, Team Mode and Free for All Mode Players will be able to create their own factions, and will be able to form teams or play alone. During the game, you will fight against factions and their enemies. When you battle an enemy fleet, you will either destroy it completely, damage it or board it. The player with the most starships left will win! 3.2) New game rules: Base-building and Supply Each faction has a starbase that it can build at the beginning of the game. Each faction also has a number of victory points (VP) for the game. The factions will all start with 3 victory points, but they can spend these VP to build starbases and new ships. Players can increase their fleet size by combining their own starbases with ships

. The next time you start PCA, you should see the new diagnostic: Reboot your computer. Reset a new pathname for your PCA.ini file. If you have already saved a new PCA.ini file with a new pathname, tell PCA about it by starting PCA again. When PCA is installed on your PC, the next time you start PCA, you should see the new program immediately, without having to run PCA.EXE again. Additionally, you can reset a device. If you want to reboot the device in question, you should unplug/replug the device from the computer, then restart PCA. You might have to clear the previous diagnostic data for the device by starting PCA. You should also reset a tab. When you switch the tab that most prompts your presence, PCA sets a new pathname to PCA.ini in a hidden folder. To restart it, you should start PCA again. Debugging Controls for Only One Device You can use the debug buttons to control PCA to only listen to the one device that has these debug buttons to the right of its buttons. Possible actions: To turn off debug for this device: Start PCA, hold the Control key, and click on the buttons next to the device's name. A: The Problem here is that the developer gave you too many options and the way you're asked to tackle the game is not the most comfortable way (for all of us). I'll explain. First of all, let's go through your options: In the first article, you have a game and you state that all the aspects from a game should be separated. Yet, reading your response to the reviewer, you state that this wasn't the way you work. Secondly, in your second article, you state that "The whole game will be accessible, all levels will be complete by the end". So, the player will have to play the game in order to know the "full experience" and to access the "full experience". Finally, in your current game, you have a number of things to work on: you said that you have 30

levels and they
